PARADING CONFEDERATES CHEER GENERAL GRANT

Aged Men Marching to Music of the 60's Stop to Greet Son of Their Former Foe.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11.—A frenzied demonstration of welcome by the men in gray for the son of the man who led the armies in blue marked the final scene of the nineteenth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. It took place during the parade. In the reviewing stand stood Gen. Frederick Dent Grant of the United States Army.

The first few divisions in line passed with only a limited number recognizing the son of the man who accepted the surrender of Lee. But finally, a cavalry division approached and its commanding officer, Gen. Tyler of Hickman, Ky., old and grizzled, peered steadily at Gen. Grant a moment. Then he turned in his saddle and yelled:

"Come on, you kids, here's Gen. Grant come to life again in his son."

Kisses Gen. Grant's Cheek.

With one of the old-time rebel yells, the division remnants of Forrest's cavalry charged upon the stand and jostled one another for an opportunity to shake the hand of the son of their old-time enemy. From that moment every gray clad veteran who could reach the stand rushed up to shake hands with Gen. Grant. The stocky army officer's cold gray eyes filled with tears and his shoulders shook with emotion as he murmured: "God bless you all, boys; God bless you," giving each a cordial hand grasp.

Battle-torn banners were grouped at his feet and waved over his head in salute. One old officer rode up to the stand, seized Gen. Grant's hand and kissed him on the cheek, exclaiming, "God bless you, boy. I fought your father, of whom you are the image, but he was a gallant, magnanimous foe, and I love his son."

Many Veterans in Tears.

More than one veteran was in tears as he saw the famous Federal chieftain's son so touched by the reception. It is doubtful if any other Northern man, even a President, ever received such an ovation as that which was spontaneously given to Gen. Grant by the Confederate veterans yesterday.

The parade over, the reunion practically was ended and veterans' special trains began to leave the city at 2 p. m.

The ball of sponsors, maids and matrons last night was the one big social event of the reunion. It was opened by the famous Southern Cross drill, and one thousand couples participated in the dance, despite the suffocating heat.

Clad in the rough gray homespun which they wore—sometimes to victory, but finally to defeat—in the sixties; shoulder to shoulder with men who bore uncomplainingly with them the awful hardships and deprivations of a cruel war, ten thousand veterans marched in what was probably the last big parade in which they will ever participate. Some of them wore straggling beards as gray as their uniforms. Some were cleanly shaven. There were many empty sleeves and scores hobbled along on wooden legs. But all marched proudly and bravely with the fire of a great faith in their eyes and the pride of a great, though lost, cause in their step.

None Too Old or Feeble.

The heat was intense, the culmination of three days of the warmest weather Memphians say they have had in years. The sun beat down pitilessly upon the asphalt streets and was thrown back into the faces of the heavily clad old veterans as they marched along. At the suggestion of the parade committee, the line of march was cut down about one mile and the counter march was eliminated. Commanders of divisions and brigades directed that the older and feebler members of their commands should drop out. But officers were compelled to report that they could find no men old enough or feeble enough to take advantage of the indulgence.

Bands from all over the South, twenty-five of them, were interspersed here and there through the parade, and when steps lagged or aged limbs trembled and seemed unable to keep the step, the stirring notes of "Dixie," "My Maryland" or "The Girl I Left Behind Me," were sufficient to send the blood coursing through the old veins as it did fifty years ago and lend strength to the muscles that age had weakened.

Forrest's Cavalrymen.

Everywhere were flags, the Stars and Bars of the lost cause, the tattered battle flags of the State that chose Davis as President, the guidons of decimated batteries of artillery and the pennants that Forrest's splendid cavalrymen had often followed into battle and sometimes to death on the field.

The parade was led by Major-General John H. McDowell, grand marshal, and the veterans, marching by in the divisions in which they served, followed behind. At the head of each division rode the sponsors and maids of honor, beautiful Southern girls attired charmingly and wearing the huge crimson shoulder knots that told of their proud position. Following the regular division came the survivors of Forrest's famous cavalry corps. Soldierly and masterly they sat their mounts, gray-clad, with the flaunting yellow trimmings which denoted their arm of the service.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, several thousand strong, closed the parade. They, too, were accompanied by a host of beautiful young women as sponsors and maids of honor, while behind them rode the official chaperons.

Sons to Publish an Official Paper.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11.—At a meeting of the recently constituted executive council of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Memphis was retained as the temporary headquarters of the confederation and Nathan Bedford Forrest was named as temporary adjutant general. Permanent headquarters will be selected at a future meeting of the executive council.

Authority was also given the commanding officer to direct members of the council to attend State reunions and a committee was appointed to present a plan for the publishing of an official periodical.

Heat Kills a Texas Veteran.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11.—J. Dunlap, an aged Confederate veteran and merchant of Dallas, Tex., overcome by heat, died at a local hospital yesterday afternoon.

Departed for Their Homes.

Friday "cleaned up" all of the druggists who have been here attending the meeting of the State Pharmaceutical Association. They were royally entertained by the citizens and return to their homes singing the praises of the University City for the manner in which the people looked after their interests during the meeting.

BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR GILCHRIST

TALLAHASSEE, June 11.—Among the bills signed by Governor Gilchrist Wednesday were the following:

An act amending Sections 2, 3, 5 and 8 of Chapter 5388, Acts of 1905, entitled an act defining the manner and cause of commitment of minors to the Florida State Reform School at Marianna; defining who shall be committed; for what time, and upon what conditions; regulating the discipline for proper management of said reform school, and appropriating money for said institution.

An act to require common carriers to pay claims for loss or damage to freight, express, baggage and overcharges on freight and baggage and reciprocal demurrage, within a certain time, and providing in the event a common carrier fails to pay such claim within said time, that such common carrier shall in certain cases be liable for interest on said claim at the rate of fifty per cent per annum, and shall also be liable for reasonable attorney's fees; and repealing all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act (saving all actions and rights of actions heretofore accrued under such repealed laws.)

An act for the organization, management, and co-operation of Agricultural (Viticulture) and Horticultural non-profit Co-operative Associations. (This measure was ordered by the fruit growers of Florida while on their visit to California.)

An act to amend Section 658 of the General Statutes of the State of Florida as to the numbers of copies of statutes and disposition thereof.

An act to amend Section 1492 of the General Statutes of the State of Florida relating to challenge of jurors.

DEATH CLAIMS CHAPLAIN OF U. S. SENATE

BOSTON, June 11.—The morning light was breaking as the venerable Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., chaplain of the United States Senate, Unitarian divine, philanthropist, author, journalist and lover of peace, breathed his last yesterday in his home in Roxbury.

At the bedside were his wife, his daughter, Miss Ellen D. Hale, and his son, Philip L. Hale, the artist. Two other sons, Arthur Hale of Washington and Prof. Edward Hale, Jr., of Union College, returned home yesterday afternoon. Today it is expected that partial arrangement for the funeral on Sunday in the South Congregational church, of which Dr. Hale was the pastor emeritus, will be announced.

On his return from Washington a few weeks ago it was reported that Dr. Hale was not in good health, but he soon regained his activities and until Tuesday attended meetings and received friends. Wednesday night, however, he showed signs of distress and rapidly weakening passed peacefully away in the early hours of the morning.

It seemed early yesterday that the whole country joined in mourning the loss of Dr. Hale. Messages expressing sorrow and esteem poured into the Hale household, one of the first being from President and Mrs. Taft.

MRS. GOULD ASKS ALLOWANCE OF $120,000

Wife Wants Big Annuity Because Her Husband Accustomed Her to Live Extravagantly.

NEW YORK, June 11.—It was a smaller and lighter Katherine Clemmons Gould who took the stand yesterday in her suit for separation from her husband, Howard Gould, than the public remembered, and her loss in weight was becoming. Mrs. Gould wore mourning for her father, and the sober black of her gown and the long gloves was relieved only by the double string of pearls at her neck and the flash of the diamonds in her long hand purse of black leather.

She seemed nervous at times, but so far as the presence of her husband was concerned she seemed not to know that he was in the same room, although he sat but a few feet from her throughout the day's session.

Justice Dowling, hearing the case, will make his finding without the aid of a jury. Mrs. Gould alleges that her husband deserted her without just cause on July 16, 1906. Howard Gould answers that his justification was the habits of the plaintiff; that since he left her he has made her an allowance of $25,000 a year, but that she is extravagant, intemperate and has been guilty of misconduct.

Wants $120,000 a Year.

The wife denies the charges and asks for an allowance of $120,000 a year to enable her to live in the manner in which her husband had accustomed her.

"During the years that you were living at Castle Gould," asked Clarence Shearn, Mrs. Gould's counsel, "how large an establishment did you have?"

"From fifteen to eighteen servants in the house, from ten to twelve around the estate and eighteen or twenty gardeners," answered Mrs. Gould.

In answer to questions, she rattled off the amounts her husband had allowed her month to month.

"Mr. Gould says that in eight years he paid you $776,000," said Delancey Nicoll, counsel for Mr. Gould.

"I gave him credit for more," was the imperturbable comment.

Mr. Nicoll tried to bring out discrepancies in various statements of expenditures and dates, Mrs. Gould listening patiently. At the end she asked:

"What are you talking about?"

Counsel caught his breath and tried another avenue of attack.

The Yacht Niagara.

"Did you know that at the time of the separation there were bills for $112,000 outstanding against you?"

"I haven't the slightest idea."

Mrs. Gould was asked if her expenditures at Castle Gould included any liquors.

"Yes," she said, "everything. I bought the apples, onions, potatoes, vinegar, sugar, salt, flour, horse feed and chicken feed."

Testimony to show the manner of life in which the witness was accustomed to live was further adduced by counsel. She showed every willingness to co-operate and told with relish of the magnificent steam yacht Niagara, with its crew of eighty men, of the saloons with seats for sixty guests and decorations that in one room alone cost $52,000.

Of more recent events, touched on later in the day, she could not recall. She couldn't recall seeing Dustin Farnum, the actor, whose name figures in an affidavit introduced as evidence, in 1908 or 1909, but she was positive she had not seen him within a month.

Details of money in her own name and how she came to own a farm in Virginia were hard to elicit and the witness began to show signs of being tired and even of some temper. The day closed, however, with her still on the stand and smiling sweetly, with prospects that she would continue her testimony for the better part of today. She was the only witness during the day.

Husband Takes Life of Man Who Stole Wife

A special to The Savannah News from Branford, Fla., near Fort White, under date of Thursday, says:

"C. M. Murphy, a wealthy contractor and planter, shot Paxton Carver, Murphy's overseer, at his farm at Burtinton, while the latter sat in the first-class coach of a passenger train as it stopped here at noon today. Carver was carried from the train to the depot platform, where he died twenty minutes later. He was shot through the body. Sheriff Dickinson of Live Oak, Fla., who was on the train, arrested Murphy.

"According to Murphy's story Carver and Mrs. Murphy eloped from the Burtinton farm yesterday afternoon. The husband learned of this, he said, and learned that Carver was returning to Burtinton from Live Oak to get some of his belongings which the hurry of the elopement caused him to leave there. Murphy met the train and killed Carver. Both men are well-known in this part of Florida and have relatives here. Carver was unmarried. A preliminary trial will be given Murphy tomorrow. He and Mrs. Murphy have several children. Murphy is well liked both here and at his home place."

Santa Rosa County to Vote on Liquor July 31

PENSACOLA, June 11.—A wet and dry election has been called for Santa Rosa county, adjoining this county, for July 31, and both the prohis and antis are preparing to wage a hard fight in the approaching campaign. Two years ago the county went dry, by a majority of a few hundred votes, and although the wets contested the election in the courts they lost. Under the constitutional provision another election can be called within two years, provided one-third of the qualified voters of the county present such a petition to the board of county commissioners. This has been done and the board after an investigation has called a special election for July 31. Santa Rosa, of which Milton is the county seat, was the last county to go dry in West Florida, the prohibitionists starting in West Florida and making a clean sweep to Pensacola two years ago, this being the only county they lost. Santa Rosa is now the first to call for another vote on the proposition. Both wets and drys are claiming a victory already.

CIRCUIT COURT HAS ADJOURNED FOR TERM

DUNCAN JORDAN SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

L. J. Knight Found Not Guilty in Trespass Case—Other Matters Before the Court.

Circuit Court was called to order at 9 o'clock Friday morning, Judge Jas. T. Wills presiding, with State's Attorney Rivers and other court officials in their respective positions.

The taking of evidence in the case of the State vs. L. J. Knight, who was charged with trespass upon the lands of the Empire Lumber Company, was resumed, the defendant and D. D. Weeks being recalled as witnesses.

Upon conclusion of their testimony argument was made, Solicitor Rivers opening for the State. Attorneys Horatio Davis and Syd L. Carter then addressed the jury in behalf of their client, after which Solicitor Rivers delivered the closing remarks. Judge Wills then charged the jury, and after being out only a short time a verdict of not guilty was returned.

Court then took a recess until 2 o'clock.

Duncan Jordan Sentenced.

During the morning session, Duncan Jordan, who was charged with the murder of Geo. L. Bryant, marshal of High Springs, and in which case the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree, was sentenced to hard labor in the State prison for life.

Afternoon Session.

Upon reconvening of court in the afternoon the case of the State vs. Olithia Lismore, colored, grand larceny, was called, and the following jury sworn: J. K. Feaster, O. A. Thigpin, J. L. Stokes, W. S. Turner, O. L. Feaster, W. R. Smith.

Lismore was charged jointly with his wife, Rosa Lismore, with the theft of a quantity of clothing belonging to F. M. Prewitt and family, the goods having been stolen from the premises of Maria Stroman, in the Spring Hill section, last September. The woman entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny when she was arraigned on Tuesday, but her husband denied any knowledge of the theft.

Attorney W. W. Hampton, Jr., was appointed to defend Lismore, and was assisted by Attorney Christopher Matheson, the defendant stating to the court that he was not able to employ counsel.

Several witnesses were examined, after which argument was submitted and the jury retired, returning a verdict of guilty.

Judge Wills then sentenced Olithia Lismore to serve a term of twelve months in the county jail, and his wife, Rosa Lismore, to a term of six months in the county jail.

This completed the criminal docket and the court excused all jurors for the term.

Motion for New Trial.

Regarding motion for a new trial in the case of Mary J. Fielding et al vs. Sophia Thompson et al., the court denied the motion and defendants were granted sixty days in which to prepare and present bill of exceptions.

In the case of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company vs. the Melton Lumber Company, replevin of a locomotive, in which a verdict was returned in favor of defendants, the plaintiffs were given fifteen days from date of judgement in which to submit argument on motion for new trial.

In the matter of the petition to require the clerk of the court to pay over to the trustee in bankruptcy funds paid into his keeping under an attachment sale of a stock of goods at Newberry in favor of Ridley-Williamson-Spain Company vs. E. S. Ingram & Company, the court granted request of petition.

Court then adjourned until the regular fall term in November.

Kelley-Davidson Case.

A change of venue having been granted in the case of J. M. Kelley and D. M. Davidson, charged with the murder of W. C. Sellars, special agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, at High Springs, a hearing in this case will begin at Palatka, Putnam county, on Monday, June 21st.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Drafted by Summerland Aerie No. 1844, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Whereas, After a period of four months' illness and patient suffering, God has, in His providence, called to his heavenly reward Mr. Zack T. Shaver, of Montgomery, Ala., the father of our worthy brother, C. E. Shaver, and whereas Brother Shaver and his mother, sister, and brothers have lost a dear friend; but knowing that their loss is his gain, we say "Thy will be done," anticipating a reunion in the beautiful home above.

Resolved, First, That Summerland Aerie No. 1844, Fraternal Order of Eagles, extend its prayer and most heartfelt sympathy to Brother C. E. Shaver, his mother, sister, and brothers, commending them to a covenant-keeping God, who has promised to bear all our burdens.

Resolved, Second, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the pages of our minute-book, and that our charter be draped for thirty days in respect to our brother and his relatives.

Resolved, Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent Brother C. E. Shaver, his mother, sister, and brothers, and a copy sent The Gainesville Sun for publication.

A Suit of Ratskin.

A thrifty Welshman at one time exhibited himself publicly in England attired in a costume composed from top to bottom of ratskins, which he had spent three years and a half in collecting. The dress was made entirely by himself. It consisted of hat, neckerchief, coat, waistcoat, trousers, tippet, gaiters and shoes. The number of rats required to complete the suit was 370. Most curious of the garments was the tippet, composed entirely of rats' tails.

WALTER M. DAVIS DIED IN PALATKA

BRILLIANT YOUNG ATTORNEY DIED WEDNESDAY NOON.

Funeral Took Place in Palatka Thursday—Survived by Wife, Children and Father.

PALATKA, June 11.—Walter M. Davis, perhaps one of the most widely-known and brilliant young lawyers the State ever produced, died Wednesday about noon at the residence of his sister, Mrs. A. S. Willard, in this city, after an illness covering several weeks.

The deceased was the only son of ex-Congressman Robert W. Davis, formerly of this city but now of Tampa, and for many years practiced law very successfully with his father. Of late Mr. Walter Davis has been a resident and practitioner of Jacksonville, where he has worked up a large and remunerative clientele.

In Palatka and Putnam county, Mr. Davis was highly and fondly regarded by all who knew him, for together with his bigness of brain he possessed a disposition at once winning and calculated to make and retain friends of the truest and most abiding type. No young man's future was so pregnant with promise or freighted with success and honor as was Mr. Davis'. Ability, both natural and acquired, an intellect strong and scintillant, a personality pleasing and impressing were among his attributes, and among his fellows in mental attainments, gifts and graces he towered high.

His death, sad, pathetic, untimely as it was, casts a deep gloom over Palatka and vicinity, for here it was that he began a career that was none the less one that many have hoped to, but have never duplicated as a lawyer, orator and public man and gentleman of that old Southern school, whose pupils are being lamentably decimated by the onrush of modern ideals, customs and manners.

Mr. Davis was prominent in military affairs here for years, he having been captain of the Gem City Guards, and as a tactician and drillmaster had few peers anywhere. He excelled at anything he essayed, and now that his voice is forever stilled, his genial presence forever gone and his warm hand-clasp forever withheld from those who knew, honored and loved him, they are grieved.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Wylee officiating, and the interment was in West View Cemetery, the Knights of Pythias escorting the remains to their last resting place.

A father, two sisters, wife and several children survive him.

MAY LOSE HIS ARM FROM SNAKE BITE

WHILE FISHING THE LAD PLACES HAND ON MOCCASIN.

Snake Clung to Finger Until Taken Off by Older Parties Who Were Present.

Herman Moody, the young son of Wm. Moody of Lacrosse, may lose his arm as a result of being bitten by a moccasin while out with a crowd on a fishing trip near that place.

The young lad had placed his hand under a log, supposedly for the purpose of releasing his hook, when it was quickly nabbed by a large moccasin, which clung to his fingers until he was released by other parties present.

The snake was of the stump-tail variety and said to be among the most poisonous of the moccasin variety. At first it was not thought that the child had been seriously injured, but the physician who has been summoned states that it is a bad finger and may cause him to lose his arm.

It was several hours afterwards before medical attention was secured and on Thursday afternoon the swelling was reported to have gone up the arm as high as the shoulder which shows that the poison has spread in his blood.

The snake, which was about three feet in length, after being released was quickly killed. It is a mystery how the reptile could have injected the poison into the boy's finger while it was under the water, as it was while in this position that the first attack was made and remained clung to the finger for several moments afterward.

SHE KNOWS EVERYTHING.

The Telephone Girl Could Cause Us Lots of Trouble.

The telephone girl sits in her chair and listens to voices from everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news, she knows who is happy and who has the blues, she knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys. She knows every girl who is chasing the boys; she knows of our troubles, she knows of our strife, she knows every man who is mean to his wife; she knows every time we are out with the boys; she hears the excuses each fellow employs; she knows every woman who has a dark past, she knows every man who's inclined to be fast. In fact there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl of that quiet demure-looking telephone girl. If the telephone girl would tell all she knows it would turn half our friends into bitterest foes; she would sow a small wind that would soon be a gale, engulf us in trouble and land us in jail; she could let go a story (which gaining its force) would cause half of our wives to sue for a divorce; she could get all the churches mixed up in a fight and turn all our days into sorrowing nights. In fact, she could keep the whole town in a stew if she'd tell a tenth part of the things she knew. Now doesn't it make your head whirl, when you think what you owe the telephone girl?—Exchange.

Thrower and the Tarpon.

Mr. Ben K. Thrower of Gainesville, the popular traveling man for the Baird Hardware Company, was numbered among the traveling men stopping at the Ocala House last night. He is just up from Sarasota, where he spent two days fishing in its beautiful waters. After fishing nearly all night, catching many varieties of the smaller kind of fish, about 9 o'clock in the morning he hooked a tarpon and says that he had the sport of his life. He was game, and struggled fiercely to release himself from the cruel lines that had crossed his path way. Sometimes he would leap out of the water fully fifteen feet in the air and shake himself with the strength of a giant, but the more he struggled the deeper he implanted the cruel hooks into his throat and the loss became his tenure of life, and after an hour's battle he surrendered and was lifted into the boat. He weighed one hundred and twenty pounds and was a very handsome fish. Mr. Thrower says that Sarasota is just now wearing the palm for good fishing and the hotel proprietors know how to entertain.—Ocala Banner, 10th.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." ALACHUA WILL HAVE NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM

ACETYLENE GAS LIGHTS WILL BE PLACED OVER CITY.

Progressive, Hustling Town is Fast Moving to the Front—Other Improvements Contemplated.

Alachua, the hustling little city in the northern part of the county, is fast coming to the front in enterprises. The latest to be installed is a new lighting system.

Arrangements are about completed whereby the city is to be lighted with a new acetylene gas system, furnishing lights not only to the streets but to the business houses and residences of the place.

The matter has been placed before the city council and they will very probably buy the machine and install it to be run for the city, or private individuals will place it in commission if a franchise can be secured from the city.

Besides this great improvement other and more extensive improvements are contemplated for the place by the coming fall, which is their busy season, as it has long been known as one of the leading cotton markets of Florida.

LIFE AT LOCHLOOSA.

Delightful Card Party—Fish Fry—Personal Notes of Interest.

LOCHLOOSA, June 11.—Mrs. J. W. Ahrens and little son of Gainesville are here spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. S. F. McEwen.

Mrs. C. H. Shaw of Zubar is in town visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Emma McEwen returned home Tuesday after a pleasant stay with relatives at Port Inglis.

Miss Lola Watson of Jacksonville is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Willie Zent of Port Inglis is in the city, a guest of friends.

Mrs. C. V. Fowler returned home Sunday after a pleasant stay at Cross Creek.

Miss Lois Tompkins, one of Lochloosa's most charming young ladies entertained quite a number of her young friends at her home Saturday evening with a card party.

S. C. Hayman purchased a fine horse last week of which he is exceedingly proud.

The naptha launch "Sadie Ray" has been sent to Jacksonville for repairs. The young folks will be glad to see it in operation again, as they spend many pleasant hours launch-riding.

Master Lonnie Haymans, little son of J. J. Haymans of Gainesville, is here visiting relatives.

Little Misses Essie May and Myrtle Tompkins of Ocala are here visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tompkins.

J. N. Haymans has been quite ill for the past week. It is hoped that he will be out again in a few days.

F. M. Coleman, one of the leading merchants of this place, made a flying trip to Citra Monday.

Alfred Tompkins returned to his home at Inverness Monday after a pleasant stay with friends and relatives here. Mr. Tompkins is a successful orange grower of that section.

Miss Florene Morris of Port Inglis is in town, a guest of Mrs. McEwen.

C. T. Johnson made a business trip to Ocala Monday.

J. J. Haymans of Gainesville was down Saturday looking after his business interests here.

Tuesday night as the moon shown bright upon the waters of the beautiful Lochloosa lake, a jolly crowd of young folks gathered on the banks for a fish-fry. Fish were fried and a most bounteous supper spread beneath the tall hickory and magnolia trees and seemed to be enjoyed very much by all. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Tompkins chaperoned the crowd.

This is an age which adores power and success. It is impatient with failure, yet how frequently the failure of today becomes the success of tomorrow.

If executions continue at the present rate, "Hung in Jacksonville" will soon displace the slogan adopted by the board of trade relating to things made in the metropolis.

Some philosopher once said that beginning a thing is half the end. That is true when the beginning is right and made with resolution and purpose. Under such circumstances the course leads straight, if sometimes long, to the goal.

W. T. Stead, the noted English writer, says that Premier Asquith has no imagination. As is well known Mr. Stead himself is not deficient in that faculty, for his imagination covers everything astral, celestial and terrestrial—especially astral.

The Pensacola Journal says it is reported that a frog farm is to be started in Santa Rosa county, and adds it ought to pay the promoters well. If the project proves successful Baldwin will have an opportunity to realize on its assets.

Not much attention has been paid to Russia of late, but all signs indicate that internal reform is surely if slowly gaining. Stolypin, the premier, proves to be a stronger man than his friends hoped or his enemies thought, and wisely and consistently his influence has been for progress. The Duma also has just legalized the "Old Believers" in spite of the hostility of the ecclesiastical authorities. That is a long step towards religious liberty.

Incidentally the Yukon-Alaska-Pacific Exposition reminds us how near at one time this country came to losing all that magnificent territory now embraced in the States of Oregon and Washington. Webster and other of our statesmen of that period strangely thought that the country could never support more than a few roving hunters and were not unwilling to let Great Britain have it. Fortunately Whitman and a few others, who knew its possibilities, managed to persuade the government at Washington and so a splendid empire was saved. But it was a close call.

The "Rock of Moses" lies in the wild valley at the base of Jebel Musa, the Mount of the Law, in the Peninsula of Sinai. The rock is 18 or 20 feet high, slightly inclined, a rough indention running over each side, which is intersected here and there with slits, and the stone is worn away in places as if from the effects of running water. It is beyond doubt the oldest known legendary object in the vicinity. The Koran refers to this rock more than once, and from these allusions arose the reverence of the Bedouins, who hold it sacred. From the middle ages onward it has been visited by Christian pilgrims, who have carved rude crosses in its side. Of all the objects in the desert it is most closely bound up with the simple faith of its wild inhabitants and of its early visitants.—The Strand.

INCREASING USE OF RED GUM.

The lumber industry of the country has been provided with much valuable information by the investigations which have been made through the scientific study of many species of trees, against the use of which there has been a prejudice for one reason or other, and from an economic standpoint this is one of the most important phases of the forest work of the Government.

The latest discoveries of valuable qualities in a former neglected species resulted after an investigation of the red gum, sometimes commercially called "satin walnut," which finds its home in the hardwood bottom lands and drier swamps of the South, in mixture with ash, cottonwood, and oak. This tree is one of the commonest timber trees of the South, reaching its best development in the deep, rich soil of the bottoms, where it often attains a height of 150 feet and a diameter of five feet. Were red gum imported from a distance and obtainable at a high price, it probably would be used extensively in the manufacture of furniture, cabinet work, and interior finishing, but being a native wood and low in price, it has been discriminated against. Gradually this objection is being done away with, and the demand for red gum has increased very rapidly in the past few years.

The best grades of red gum, clear heart, find a market almost exclusive in the export trade, though a small amount is used in the United States for inside finishing. Practically seventy-five per cent of the clear heart gum lumber cut in this country is exported for use in England, France, and Germany, for the manufacture of furniture, inside trimmings, newel posts and stair railings. The commoner grades of red gum are used in the United States for cheap furniture, desks, the better grades of boxes, and a number of novelties. The poorest grades goes into boxes, barrels and other articles for which short, narrow boards can be used. The inner portion of the hearts of the trees, which are of little value for boards on account of shakes and other defects, are usually sawed into two by four to two by twelve, and sometimes six by six and six by eight inch building timbers. These timbers have small values in the large markets, but near the mills the local trade exhausts the supply.

For the manufacture of slack barrels red gum is one of the most important woods in the country, ranking second to elm, both as a stave and a heading wood. Up to the year 1900, elm and a little cottonwood were used for this purpose, but with the advance in price of these woods a substitute had to be found, and red gum, owing to its cheapness, was experimented with and found quite satisfactory.

The chief objection to red gum is its strong tendency to warp and twist. This can be entirely overcome by proper handling. Were the lumber of high price this difficulty would have been considered and overcome long ago, and the wood used, but on account of its abundance and cheapness, very few operators have turned their attention to solving the problem.

The preparation of red-gum lumber for any purpose should begin when the tree is felled. To guard against staining and warping, it is handled in much the same way as other woods, but with the important difference that the piles are narrower, so that the air may circulate freely, and thus prevent fermentation of the sap, and that the cross sticks must be placed close together. It has also been found well to place heavy weights on the cars of red gum when they are sent to the kiln. Every manufacturer of high-grade furniture and trim knows, that to secure the best possible results, the material must be redried when it reaches the factory. Some large users of red gum repile the stock after it has been carried awhile, and bulk it down with cross sticks every five or six layers, so as to straighten out whatever twist there may be in the boards. This practically assures the elimination of twisting and warping. It can be handled in this way to much better advantage than where an effort is made to straighten it out by force, when cutting up the stock and preparing it for use; for, when the pressure is applied gradually, there is no loss by reason of breakage or splitting. After having been dried and tempered in the air and then redried, it usually loses nearly all of its warping tendency. The cost of handling lumber in this manner is not great, and the good results secured thereby more than pay for whatever outlay there may be.

A plan, which many furniture manufacturers have followed to good advantage and employed where red gum, oak, mahogany, or other woods are used, is to design the article in such a manner that the wide pieces may be reinforced, and thus prevent any warping or other defects showing up. Instances have been known where red gum boards eighteen inches wide have been glued together and made into thirty-six inch desk tops. The tops were firmly cleated on the bottom, held to place as well as any other wood, and gave good satisfaction. This lumber had been standing on the sticks for about a year. Another manufacturer, who uses red gum for drawers and paneling, guarded against the tendency to shrink and swell by the application of a couple of coats of shellac inside and out, and found that the wood behaved itself as well as any that could have been used. In this instance, plain-sawed gum was employed, and plain-sawed material ordinarily gives more trouble than quarter-sawed.

The real problem for the consuming trade is to study these questions, and to devise ways to guard against the difficulties encountered. If gum shows a tendency to warp, why not reinforce it in some way? When it is used in the manufacture of furniture, tenons should have more body, and greater precautions in the way of cleating the wide boards are required. When the work is properly performed and well-seasoned red gum is used, the results should be satisfactory in every way. The beauty of this wood should appeal more strongly to the American people in the future than it has in the past.

OTIS D. SMITH MEETS DEATH ON GALLOWS

MURDERER OF SISTER EXECUTED IN JACKSONVILLE.

Declared His Innocence, But Died With Words, "I Am Ready to Meet My God."

The following account of the hanging of Otis D. Smith, which occurred in Jacksonville Friday, is taken from The Metropolis:

"Maintaining his innocence to the very last and mounting the scaffold bravely, Otis Purrell Smith, 32 years old, was executed in the Duval county jail this morning, expiating upon the gallows the murder of his sister, Cora Belle Smith, whom the law says he shot and killed in a rooming house on West Adams street a little over a year ago.

"Shortly after 10 o'clock Smith was brought from his cell, where he has lived since the crime was committed, except for a few hours at the police headquarters after his arrest. With him were Rev. J. T. Boone, of the First Christian Church, and Rev. O. K. Cull, an evangelist from Lexington, Ky., now holding a revival meeting in this city. Besides these two gentlemen, acting as spiritual advisers, were several women, who have assisted the ministers. Singing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," these persons, with the newspaper men, Sheriff Bowden and Deputies Frank and Ben Jones, Jailer Argo and the physicians required, were the only ones on the floor level of the gallows. Below were the members of the jury.

"As the straps were adjusted the singing was continued and Smith looked upward. During the time the straps were being fastened Rev. Mr. Boone offered a prayer for the repose of Smith's soul. At 10:06 Sheriff Bowden asked Smith if he had any statement to make. Looking about the small assembly, Smith spoke in a firm voice:

"'Now that you gentlemen are all here together I wish to state that it is not through bravery that I come out here upon this gallows, but by the help of Jesus Christ. I feel that I have a home in heaven and have no fear of dread to go.'

"Ready to Meet God."

"The cap was adjusted and the noose fitted upon his neck. Sheriff Bowden asked Smith if he was ready. Then, without faltering, Smith said in firm voice:

"Yes, I am ready to meet my God."

"As the last word left his lips the trap was sprung and he shot downward into the room below. The execution was perfect. Smith's neck being broken by the fall, and although he was allowed to hang from time of the drop, 10:07, until 10:19 the physicians declared that death was instantaneous, only a faint heart beat continuing for a few minutes.

Talks to Reporters.

"Before he was taken to the gallows Smith talked with his spiritual advisers and engaged in prayer and a short religious service. He talked with the newspaper men in a calm voice, the main topic being upon religious subjects. He declared his innocence of the crime for which he died and handed Sheriff Bowden a letter, the publication of which was requested.

"Smith did not sleep last night, but spent the whole night in reading the Bible and prayer. He ate only a light breakfast.

Admonishes Others.

"Some of the statements made by Smith before his death were as follows:

"'All of us are under death sentence, and I would advise everybody to serve the Lord instead of the devil. * * * I have served the devil for twenty years, but I found more peace and happiness in serving the Lord even while behind these prison bars. * * * I am going before a Judge, who judges all alike and who knows all the evidence. * * * I hold nothing against any man and could shake hands with my worst enemy and wish him well.'

"These and many more statements he made along the same line, many of them being repeated in his written statement. This he prepared last week, saving the last few days of his life for prayer and meditation on the life to come.

Mind Your Own Business.

An old custom once prevailed in a remote place in England of giving a clock to any one who would truthfully swear that he had minded his own business alone for a year and a day and had not meddled with his neighbors. Many came, but few, if any, gained the prize, which was more difficult to win than the Dunmow flitch of bacon. Though they swore on the four gospels and held out their hands in certain hope, some hitch was sure to be found somewhere, and for all their asseverations the clock remained stationary on the shelf, no one being able to prove his absolute innocuity from uncalled for interference in things not in any way concerning himself. At last a young man came with a perfectly clear record, and the clock seemed as if it was at last about to change owners. Then said the custodian, "Oh, a young man was here yesterday and made mighty sure he was going to have the clock, but he didn't." "And why didn't he get it?" "What's that to you?" snapped the custodian. "That's not your business, and you don't get the clock."

The Chinese Sampans.

In Canton 400,000 people spend their whole existence in boats, which are there called sampans. They are born in them, live in them from infancy to old age and finally die in them. Collectively these boats form a floating suburb to the city proper, one of the most amazing human settlements in the world. Every creek is crammed with them. Along the main banks of the river they are huddled twenty deep—so close together that the covering of mats appears continuous as far as the eye can reach. And each sampan houses a separate family, with its own big brazier lamp, which serves for heating, lighting and cooking the evening meal. The scene when a really serious conflagration once gets a proper hold in the midst of these floating wooden homes may be imagined. Escape is impossible except for those moored at the outermost edge. In one of these conflagrations over a thousand persons lost their lives.

FAMILY CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

Two Little Girls had Eczema Very Badly—In One Case Child's Hair Came Out and Left Bare Patches—Father's Head Sore from Childhood—In All Three Cases

CUTICURA MET WITH ITS USUAL SUCCESS

"I have two little girls who have been troubled very badly with eczema. One of them had it on her lower limbs. I did everything that I could hear of for her, but it did not give in until warm weather when it seemingly subsided. The next winter when it became cold weather the eczema started again and also in her head where it would take the hair out and leave bare patches as large as a quarter of a dollar. At the same time her arms were sore the whole length of them. I took her to a physician and he said that she had two distinct types of eczema. I continued with him for several weeks and the child grew worse all of the time. Her sister's arms were also affected in the same way. My husband came home one day with a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. I began using them and also the Cuticura Pills and by the time the second lot was used their skin was soft and smooth as it had not been before for the winter. We keep the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment constantly by us and when any little roughness or irritation appears on their skin I quickly dispel it with the Cuticura Remedies. My husband has used them with most satisfactory results for a sore head which has troubled him from childhood. Mrs. Charles Baker, Albion, Me., Sept. 21, 1908."

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful remedies for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, of infants, children and adults, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed by mild doses of Cuticura Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

His Kindly Act.

In a Sunday school class recently the teacher sought to impress upon the small boys the virtue of kindly and helpful deeds.

"Now," said she, "let every boy here try to do some kindness during the week and next Sunday report what he did."

Next Sunday arrived, and the teacher proceeded to listen to stories of good deeds done. Finally she reached the smallest boy in the class. His age is nine.

"Well, Willie," she said, "have you done any kindness for any one, anything really helpful, during the week?"

"Yes'm."

"What was it?"

"I let another kid copy me 'rithmetic lesson off me book in school."

A Billion.

Great Britain clings to its own numerical system and regards a billion as a million times a million. But America differs, a billion in the United States being only a thousand millions. This is perhaps the only instance in which a thing is bigger in the old country than in the new. One has to go only a little way from England—to Calais—to find the billion lessened, for France dignifies a thousand millions with the name of billion. They are wasting a word in France in this connection, however, inasmuch as there is already a word, milliard, to designate this number.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Long Distance System

One of the most valuable features of our service, to our subscribers and to the public generally, is our connection with the extensive long distance lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the other associated Bell Telephone companies.

We own thousands of miles of long distance lines in the seven States in which we operate and in addition can connect any telephone in our system with lines extending to any other city in which a Bell Telephone system is operated.

These long distance lines are of the most modern and improved construction and are maintained at a high state of efficiency. The Bell systems operating in various sections of the country, are uniform in their equipment and in their methods of operating.

Only by reason of this close traffic arrangement between the Bell Telephone companies is it possible to go to a Bell Telephone almost anywhere, ask for "Long Distance" and be put in communication with almost any point in the country.

This vast network of wires, radiating throughout the nation, is used daily in commerce and for social purposes by the banker, the farmer and citizens in all walks of life and our plant here is an important link in this great chain.

A FAMOUS PLAYHOUSE

Old Drury Lane Has Outlived Many Vicissitudes.

A PHENIX AMONG THEATERS.

London's Home of Pantomima Has Been the Scene of Many Conflagrations—Attacks Upon Royalty Within Its Walls—The "Rejected Addresses."

On the night of Feb. 24, 1809, as the house of commons was engaged upon a rather important debate, sundry of the members observed through the windows a faint red glow which eventually became so alarming in its intensity as to interfere with the orderly course of the discussion. It was not long before the news ran round the benches that Drury Lane theater was alight, and so great was the general concern at what was considered almost a national disaster that a motion was made to adjourn the sitting. Sheridan, however, as Moore tells us in his life of the great orator, immediately expressed the hope—with an air of detachment that did him the greatest credit, considering his position as principal shareholder in the theater—that "whatever might be the extent of the present calamity it would not interfere with the public business of the country." That his courage was not daunted by so serious a personal disaster was proved by the fact that he reopened a week later at the Lyceum.

The destruction of "The Lane"—the third building since its foundation in 1663—was one of seven familiar disasters to London theaters in twenty years; but, whatever else happened, Drury Lane must be rebuilt. Nor was the decision on the part of the proprietors unbusinesslike in the least degree, for Horace Walpole, under the date of 1751, tells us how on the day appointed for the nationalization bill "the house of commons adjourned to attend at Drury Lane, where 'Othello' was acted by a Mr. Debanal and his family.

Drury Lane has passed through many vicissitudes in the course of its existence. The first building was very unfavorably described by Pepys, who writes of the discomfort caused by rain that found its way through the roof and drenched the occupants of the pit and also the bad acoustic qualities of the place. Fire put an end to these inconveniences in 1672. The second theater, which was designed by Wren and opened in 1674, had a much longer life, but was on two occasions the scene of attempts upon the royal family. In 1716 Freeman tried to shoot the Prince of Wales, who afterward became King George II., and in 1800 George III. was the victim of a similar unsuccessful attack at the hands of a lunatic. It was this same building which, as Walpole relates in one of his letters, was the scene of a lively disturbance in 1744, when an attempt was made to introduce pantomime for the first time. So great has been the change of popular sentiment on this point since that far off date that today winter in London without pantomime at Drury Lane is almost incredible.

The third building, which was opened in 1794, came to an untimely end, as we have seen, in 1809, and the inauguration of its successor three years later was marked by an event of considerable literary importance. The managers of the theater, being desirous of giving their new venture a good sendoff, invited the public to submit to competition suitable prologues, the prize poem to have the honor of being publicly recited from the stage upon the day of opening. A host of writers, including many of the best known names in contemporary literature, responded to the invitation, and this fact fortunately suggested to two brothers, James and Horace Smith, who were beginning to acquire a reputation in the world of letters, the notion of publishing anonymously a collection of prologues parodying the styles of various living writers of repute. As it was necessary that the little volume should be issued in time for the opening of the theater, the authors were compelled to complete their task in six weeks, but it is doubtful whether the quality of the work suffered much on this account. Indeed, in the preface to the eighteenth edition, published in 1833, it is suggested that the parodies gained rather than lost in effectiveness by being struck off, as it were, at a white heat.

The success of "The Rejected Addresses" was immediate and lasting. The two brothers found that they had leaped into fame at a bound, and the famous authors whom they had so successfully held up to kindly ridicule expressed their astonishment at the accuracy with which their peculiarities of style and expression had been reproduced. It was a notable achievement. Byron, whose prologue won the prize and was delivered in due course on the Drury Lane stage, writing to Murray, expressed his appreciation of the little volume that had made such a stir in the world and in a second letter told him that he liked it "better and better." Jeffrey in 1843 wrote that he took "The Rejected Addresses" to be the very best imitations and often of difficult originals that ever were made. But perhaps the comment which pleased the authors the most was that of a Lincolnshire clergyman quoted in the preface of 1833 to the effect that he did not see why they should have been rejected. Indeed, he thought some of them very good. The reverend gentleman displayed "a plentiful lack" of humor in this pronouncement, but there will be few even today to quarrel with his judgment.—London Globe.

A BOWLDER BRIDGE.

Probably Placed in Position by an Ancient Cloudburst.

One of the most remarkable freaks of wind and erosion known in the west is to be found in one of the smaller side canyons of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona.

In a narrow gorge, carved through centuries of flow of water and wind driven sand down the little valley there lies a huge bowlder as big as the average house moving van seen on a city street. It is held up solely by friction on the sides of the gorge and is entirely free from any solid connection with the sides of the sandstone walls.

From the sandy bed of the little gorge to the rock is fully seventy five feet. The Indians who once roamed over the Grand canyon country have, of course, legends to account for the location of the big round rock, but as a matter of fact it is believed to have rolled off the slope of a rocky and precipitous mountain about five miles distant from the canyon and to have been picked up in the path of some cloudburst years ago and rolled to its present resting place.

The stone hangs only by a small projection on each side, but it is so solid that it forms a convenient footbridge across the gorge over which the pedestrian may take his way.—Kansas City Journal.

WATERPROOF FABRICS.

There Are Several Methods by Which They Are Treated.

Fabrics are waterproofed by impregnating them with metallic salts, by coating them with oil, grease and wax, by coating them with india rubber or by treating them with ammoniacal solutions of copper. The first process is applied to saileloth. The canvas is impregnated with alum or calcium acetate and then immersed in a fixing bath containing soap, which forms insoluble lime or alumina soap in the cloth.

The second process is used for raincoats, imitation leather, etc. The fabric passes between hot rollers and then over a cylinder of wax, etc.

In the third process a solution of india rubber in carbon disulphide, chloroform or other solvent is applied. This process is used for mackintoshes and bathing caps and is applied to thread.

In the fourth process, employed in the manufacture of bookbindings and Willesden canvas, cotton cloth is run through a solution of oxide of copper in ammonia, which dissolves the superficial layer and on evaporation leaves it in the form of a uniform coating of cellulose. The process is completed by passing the cloth between rollers. There are still other processes, but these are the most important.—Scientific American.

Colds that hang on weaken the constitution and develop into consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar cures persistent coughs that refuse to yield to other treatment. Do not experiment with untried remedies as delay may result in your cold settling on your lungs. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Caterpillars.

The green and yellow tints so frequently to be found in caterpillars are stated to be due to coloring matter derived from their food and passed through the blood of the spinners. By impregnating leaves with artificial colors the experimenters caused some species of caterpillars to produce silk of bright orange yellow and fine rose hues. By the aid of the spectroscope the presence and nature of colored pigments in the blood of the little creatures were established.—London Tatler.

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale, sickly. Burdock Blood Bitters makes the blood rich, red, pure—restores perfect health.

GAINESVILLE,

— THE —

University City.

Gainesville is conceded to be the most enterprising as well as the most beautiful city in the interior of Florida. It is located in the very center of the State, half way between the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, surrounded by lands of such fertility as to be capable of producing a great variety of crops; in the heart of the truck growing, phosphate and naval stores belt. She has the best educational advantages in the State, good churches with edifices which are superior to any town of its size in Florida, with large and consistent congregations; has a climate which cannot be excelled for health and pleasure. All these natural advantages, combined with a progressive and enterprising cosmopolitan citizenship, are sure to make a big city.

There are many natural attractions in close proximity to the city, some of which are Alachua Sink, Paine's Prairie, the Devil's Mill Hopper, Warren's Cave, and Lake Newnan, all of which are reached by private conveyance.

Spring Park Stock Farm, the largest and finest live stock farm in the State, is only eight miles west of the city and is reached by a good hard road, affording a most pleasant drive.

The farmers of Alachua county, of which Gainesville is the county seat, "live at home and board at the same place." The temperature is very uniform, scarcely ever reaching the nineties in summer or the twenties in winter. The population of Gainesville is about eight thousand, representing nearly every nationality on the face of the earth, and strangers always meet with a hearty welcome.

The University of Florida for young men and the National Agricultural Experiment Station are located within the corporate limits of the city. In fact, Gainesville has so many things that we must be pardoned if we omit a few of them in the following enumeration of what

Gainesville Has:

DEATH OF MRS. FLEWELLEN.

The Remains Will Be Brought to This City for Interment.

News was received in this city Friday of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Flewellen, which was caused from a stroke of paralysis that occurred during the early part of the morning. Mrs. Flewellen, deceased, did not survive the terrible suffering by the stroke of paralysis very much but it was felt probable it would prove fatal and when a short while received the message to the effect that she had succumbed to the stroke.

The remains will be brought to this city and the interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery beside her husband, who preceded her some years since.

She was about 70 years of age, and at one time was a resident of this city, having been identified with the church and social life of Gainesville, proving a faithful and earnest worker.

Funeral Notice.

The remains of Mrs. Mary E. Flewellen are expected to arrive in this city at 12:30 today, and if they do the funeral will be held from the Methodist church at 3 p. m.

The following are requested to act as pall-bearers: J. M. Dell, W. R. McKinstry, Dr. Larrigue, E. K. Fagan, Ford Bayer, J. R. Bashaw.

R. McCLELLAN,
Funeral Director.

Attention, Kirby Smith Chapter.

Members of Kirby Smith Chapter, U. D. C., are requested to attend the funeral of our late sister, Mrs. Mary E. Flewellen, who was a member of this chapter. MRS. H. H. McCREARY,
President.

ANOTHER GOOD HOUSE.

Baseball Benefit Meeting With Liberal Encouragement at the Baird.

Since the addition of Mrs. Helen Sloan Kalbfleld and Miss Irene Locke to the program at the New Baird the audiences are increasing at each performance and it is one that is well worthy of your patronage.

The Gainesville baseball club is fortunate in securing Mrs. Kalbfleld, who has a particularly warm spot in her heart for the boys, and next to Palatka she will be found "boosting" them and backing them in every manner, and she has kindly consented to assist in any enterprise for their benefit.

Tonight will be the last performance for their benefit at this time and a crowded house should reward their efforts.

Leaning Levenne did a great deal to fill the house last night, as at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon he gave a public exhibition of leaning from the roof of the opera house, one of the tallest buildings of the city. This feat is rather novel, and very dangerous.

BUNGER BUYS HOME.

Purchased Meyers Property on Friday and Will Move Here.

A. E. Bunger of Van Wert, Ohio, who has been in the city for the past three weeks prospecting, purchased the Meyers home on Friday and will at once have the place remodeled and repaired preparatory to moving here the coming fall.

He states that he has visited every section of the State and is better satisfied with Gainesville than any place he has seen, which resulted in his buying.

Besides himself, Mr. Bunger states that he will bring three other families here during the fall that will buy homes, and has a large number of prospectors that will visit this part of Florida with a view of locating.

Mr. Bunger is a retired farmer and his only daughter will reside with him in his new home.
